Louve

Bible in hand
The Louvre is open from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. every day except Tuesdays. Evening opening hours: until 10:00 p.m. on Mondays (RICHELIEU wing only) and Wednesdays (all departments).

The museum's Handbook can be obtained from the Information Desk, open from 9:00 a.m. to 9:45 p.m., tel. (1) 40 20 53 17. Video screens indicate which rooms are closed.

The Louvre consists of seven departments, identified by different colors. This brochure discusses various objects from three departments: Oriental Antiquities, Egyptian Antiquities, and Greek, Etruscan, and Roman Antiquities. Certain exhibits may be unavailable for viewing due to restoration work, or because they are on loan.

ABBREVIATIONS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Code of Hammurabi</th>
<th>Page 8</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Human-headed winged bulls</td>
<td>Page 10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moabite Stone</td>
<td>Page 13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seated Scribe</td>
<td>Page 19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Triad of Osorkon II</td>
<td>Page 23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tomb of Marsyas</td>
<td>Page 26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Archers of Darius</td>
<td>Page 29</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Starting from under the Pyramid, escalators lead into the wings: DENON, SULLY, and RICHELIEU. Each wing is divided into sections. Head for RICHELIEU.

Head for Antiquités orientales. Take the escalator leading to Mésopotamie archaïque (straight ahead). The tour follows the route designed by the curators of the museum. Exhibits are identified by their inventory number.

Room 1a Mesopotamia

Certain motifs reappear throughout the visit:

- The horn is a symbol of strength and power. (Deuteronomy 33:17) A crown or headpiece with horns identifies a god or a deified human. — w86 12/15, 28.

- The bull was worshiped as a symbol of deity. Marduk, Molech, Baal, and Apis. The sun-god was often represented by bulls, the horns signifying the rays, and the bull's strong reproductive power, the sun's power as giver of life. One of the most important signs of the diac. — it-1, 207, 374. For sun worship, compare Ezekiel 23:11; Ezekiel 8:16.

- The flowing vase: a vase providing life-giving water is a recurring theme in Mesopotamian mythology, perhaps reflecting the account in Genesis 2:10. — Compare Ezekiel 47:1, 12; Revelation 22:1, 2.

- The ring and rod, symbols of authority. — Genesis 38:18; it-2, B17.

- Stele of the Vultures, AO 16109. One side, covered in a net (compare Habakkuk 1:14-17); other side, king and troops with hair let down for war. Compare Judges 5:2.

Room 2 Mesopotamia: 2350-2000 B.C.E.

- (Right) Naked captives. Fragment of an Akkadian king's victory stele, SB 3. A good illustration of Nahum 20:1-4, although dealing with a different king.
3 RICHELIEU

2. Victory stele of Naram-Sin, king of Akkad, SB 4. Naram-Sin, deified in his lifetime, as shown by his horned helmet, was given the name “god of Akkad.” The inscription tells of his claim to rule the universe. (See his Vase, AO 74, in showcase Empire d’Akkad.) Note the triad of solar divinities.

2. Showcase: Cylinder seals, art of the Akkad Empire (Accad in Genesis 10:10, city on the Euphrates). Babylonia is sometimes subdivided into Akkad in the north, and Sumer or Chaldea in the south. Among the ancient cities in Babylonia were Adab, Akkad, Babylon, Borsippa, Uruk (Erech), Kish, Lagash, Nippur and Ur. The Akkadians apparently surpassed the Sumerians in the art of seal-making. The moon-god Sin, the sun-god Shamash, and the fertility goddess Ishtar, are exhibited along with the fire-god Nergal, mentioned in 2 Kings 17:29, 30. — it-1, 36, 238, 974; it-2, 493.
3 Showcase: Ille dynastie d’Ur

- Weight decorated with crescent moon, AO 22187. Half a mina (here 248 g) from the temple of the moon-god Sin, protector of Ur. Terah, Abraham’s father, who lived in Ur, perhaps worshiped this god. — Genesis 11:27, 28; Joshua 24:2, 14; it-1, 1169; it-2, 1087.

4 Statue of Ur-Ningirsu, AO 9504. The pedestal shows tribute-bearers acting as a ‘footstool for his feet.’ — Psalm 110:1.

5 Showcase: Mobilier des temples et des tombes (Temple and tomb artifacts)

- Fragment of bas-relief dedicated to the goddess Ninsun, mother of Gilgamesh, AO 2761. The epic of this hunter and king of Uruk (Erech in Genesis 10:10) describes his fear of dying after his friend Enkidu’s death. It tells of his strenuous but futile attempts to attain immortality. The eleventh of 12 tablets recounts the story of the flood. — g80 7/8, 13-16; g90 4/22, 3.

- Miniature bas-relief figurines, AO 16716 and others. Household gods or idols (Genesis 31:30, 34), also used in Israel. — 1 Samuel 15:23; 19:13; it-2, 1087-8.

Room 3 Mesopotamia: 2nd and 1st millennium B.C.E.

1 Palace of Mari (model). Testifies to the brilliant civilization of the city of Mari, whose archives yielded some 20,000 clay tablets. The names of Peleg, Serug, Nahor, Terah, and Haran are listed as cities of northern Mesopotamia, reflecting Genesis 11:18-26; w80 10/1, 7. Note the upper rooms and the terraced roofs common in Bible times.

2 Showcase: Mari-Terqa, début du 1er millénaire av. n. ère (Start of 2nd millennium B.C.E.)

3 Models of divining ivers, AO 19829-44. Both in Babylonia and in Assyria, the liver, considered the seat of vitality and emotion, was examined to look for omens. — Ezekiel 21:21, 22; it-1, 637.

3 Showcase: Hammurabi de Babylone et son temps (Hammurabi of Babylon and his time)

- Worshiper of Larsa, AO 15704. Hammurabi(?), shown throwing a kiss as a sign of worship and prayer. (Compare Job 31:26-28.) As king, Hammurabi enlarged and fortified Babylon which became his capital. — w82 12/1, 5; it-1, 236.
4) Law Code of Hammurabi, king of Babylon, 8. Based on earlier legislation, its purpose was to give judges jurisprudence. It embodies many customs from the patriarchal system. Some similarities with the later Mosaic law code have led some to claim that Moses used it as his inspiration. However, many of its laws are cruel and less fair than those in the Mosaic Law. The king is standing before Shamash, the sun-god. — w58, 431; r-1, 551.
Kudurru of Melishipak II, SB 22, boundary stone. (Deuteronomy 19:14) Title deeds were placed under the protection of divinities, represented by their astral symbols: moon (Sin), star (Ishtar) and sun (Shamash). The marru (pointed hoe), emblem of Marduk (Merodach), patron-god of Babylon, appears on the third register. — Compare Jeremiah 50:2: it-1. 360.

Showcase: La Babylone au 1er millénaire av. n. ére (1st millennium B.C.E.)

Astrological calendar, AO 6448. Note the 12 divisions corresponding to the months and signs of the zodiac. The Babylonians based their decisions on astrology and magic. (Ezekiel 21:21) The worship of heavenly bodies associated planets with deities: Jupiter with Marduk, Venus with Ishtar, Saturn with Ninurta, Mercury with Nebo, and Mars with Nergal.—it-1, 974.
Horned dragon head, symbol of Marduk, AO 4106. Principal god of Babylon, where 55 temples were dedicated to him. Considered to be the city's founder. — It-1, 974.

Vase, SB 608. According to the inscription, part of the royal dinner service of Nabuchodonosor II (Nebuchadnezzar).

Babylonian New Year's festival, MNB 1848. This took place near the spring equinox. The festival, which lasted 11 days, involved a ritual of exorcism to expel the 'demons of chaos' and revolved around the worship of Marduk. The rulers of Babylon were not installed by coronation; but became kings by taking hold of the hand of the golden image of Marduk. The ceremony was repeated each year at the New Year's festival. — g86 12/22, 21; It-2 380.

"Esagila" clay tablet, AO 6555. Ancient copy giving dimensions of the temple of Marduk (the Esagila), and the ziggurat (E-teumen-ki: House of the Foundation of Heaven and Earth), measuring 91 m (300 ft) to a side and possibly 90 m (295 ft) high. This may have been built on the site of the tower of Babel. — Genesis 11:1-9.

Fragment of a victory stele, AO 2776. Illustrates the cruelty of the Assyrians. One prisoner has his eyes bored out. — Compare Nahum 3:1; It-1, 201.

Showcase: Le bitume (bitumen)

Brick, AO 372. Bitumen was used for mortar. — Genesis 11:3.

Passing lion, AO 21118. Enamelled bricks from Babylon's Processional Way, such as the captive Jews would have seen. The Bible uses the lion as a symbol of Babylon. — Compare Jeremiah 50:17; Daniel 7:4.

The palace covered about 2 acres. Built by Sargon II, it was deserted a year or so after its inauguration, when the king was killed and replaced by his son, Sennacherib. The total wall space occupied by the reliefs equals an overall distance of about 1.5 mi. — It-1, 148; It-2, 866.

Human-headed winged bulls, AO 19857-61. One of the inscriptions specifies that Sargon II "struck down Samaria, all the house of Omri." (Compare 2 Kings 17:5, 6.) The outspread wings are reminiscent of Isaiah 8:7, 8.
2) Sargon II and a dignitary, AO 19873-4. Once considered fictitious by prominent scholars, Sargon II is now one of the best-known Assyrian kings. The discovery of the ruins of Khorsabad confirmed Isaiah 20:1—11:1, 148.

3) Transport of wood by sea, AO 19889-91. Cedars of Lebanon for the palace of Sargon II being felled and transported to Assyria. — Compare 1 Kings 5:8, 9.
   - Exit the Cour de Khorsabad. Directly opposite.

Room 6

Mesopotamia — Northern Syria

1) Showcase: Arslan Tash, VIIIe siècle av. n. ère

■ Ivories. The use of ivory in furniture brings to mind the words of the prophet Amos [6:4]. See Room C, showcase 8, ivory inscribed with the name Hazael, the king of Damascus mentioned in 1 Kings 19:15.
3 RICHELIEU

2. Showcase: Époque néo-assyrienne, 19e–18e siècles av. n. ôre (Neo-assyrian era, 9th–7th centuries B.C.E.)

- Bronze fragment commemorating the restoration of Babylon, AO 20185, representing Assyrian king Esar-haddon who is mentioned in 2 Kings 19:37. — It-1, 757.

- Prism F: Military expeditions of King Ashurbanipal, AO 19939, the Asennappar of Ezra 4:10. Responsible for the massive relocation of populations, he is best known for his literary interests, assembling a great library of some 22,000 cuneiform tablets. — It-1, 188.

3. Nineveh: Bas-reliefs: Scenes of combat and lines of deportees, AO 19903-11. (Compare 2 Kings 17: 24–26; 18:13.) During the reigns of Sargon, Sennacherib (2 Kings 18:13); Esar-haddon and Ashurbanipal, Nineveh reached the height of its blood-letting and deportations. — Ezra 4:2; w60. 149: it-1, 415.

- Head for Room 8 (rotunda).

Room 8

1. Showcase 2: Cachette jar, SB 2723. It contained all the items on display in the showcase. Sometimes documents, such as deeds of purchase, were placed in earthenware jars for safekeeping. — Compare 2 Corinthians 4:7; it-2, 1154.

Room 7

1. Showcase 2: Suse I (Susa): Bowl with geometric and animal designs: swastika and stick-animals, SB 3153. The archaeologist V. Childe explains that the swastika and the cross were religious or magical symbols that have retained their character in the modern world. — it-1, 240.

- Return to Room 8 and head for Room 10.
Room 10

1 Bronze sacrificial altar, SB 185. Decorated with serpents, deities, and flowing waters. Note the drainage holes for the victim’s blood. The serpent was a symbol of fecundity, of sex goddesses, and often an object of worship. The shedding of its skin was used as a symbol of continuing life. — 1 Kgs 2, 898.

2 Sit-Shamsi, SB 2743. Bronze model of a high place similar to the kind used by the Canaanites. Besides the two kneeling priests are steles, basins and a sacred grove.
— Compare 2 Kings 23:8, 2 Chronicles 14:3; Isaiah 17:8, 27:9.

Room D

Lands of the Levant

1 The Moabite Stone (Stèle de Mesha), AO 5066. Inscription relates the Moabite version of the events related in 2 Kings 3:4, 5, 21–27. This stele is the oldest non-Biblical text discovered, containing the divine name, in Hebrew–Phoenician (𐤉𐤄𐤄𐤐𐤀𐤁), on the 18th line on the right. [See front cover, under the title.] — w/90 4/15, 30.

2 Architectural model of a sanctuary, AO 21689. It may be linked with a form of idolatry similar to the worship of the sacred pole. It comes from Tirzah, capital of the ten-tribe kingdom during the reigns of Nadab, Baasha, Elah, Zimri, and Omri. — 1 Kings 15:33.

Room C  Lands of the Levant

1. Funerary stele, AO 3026, with an inscription in Aramaic, one of the languages of the Bible.

Room B  Lands of the Levant

1. Showcase: Ras-Shamra: Bronze and gold plated statuettes. Baals and goddesses. (Compare Judges 10:6.) At Ras-Shamra (Ugarit), on the Syrian coast, numerous religious objects and hundreds of clay tablets were found, describing a religion similar to that of the Canaanites. — 2K-1, 152.
2. Stele of the storm-god Baal, AO 15775: Baal's spear, tipped with vegetation, symbolizes fertility.

- Exit Room A (SULLY 4), go down the stairs Escalier Henri II. Follow Louvre médiéval to reach Antiquités égyptiennes.
The excavations that took place during the renovation and enlargement of the museum produced numerous items, including a piece of slate bearing the name of Jehovah in Hebrew characters (not on display.)

- Exit the Louvre médiéval and enter the Crypte du Sphinx.

Crypte du Sphinx

1. Large Sphinx in the likeness of Amenemhat II, A 23, found at Tanis, the Greek name for Zoan, mentioned in Numbers 13:22. The name of Pharaoh Sheshonk I (Shishak) is inscribed on the left shoulder. — 1 Kings 11:40; 2 Chronicles 12:1–9; II–2, 934.

- Go up the stairs and head for Antiquités égyptiennes.
The Near East in Antiquity
Mastaba, funerary chapel where family and priests prayed for the deceased person's soul. Proof that long before Greek philosophers and Christendom's churches, the Egyptians believed in the immortality of the soul. — Compare Ecclesiastes 9:10; Ezekiel 18:4.
Room 5

1. The Seated Scribe, E 3023. The history of Egypt was written by such scribes, trained by priests who did not hesitate to delete from the records anything uncomplimentary to the ruling pharaoh or his gods. This likely explains why the events related in Exodus, chapters 12 to 14, are not mentioned in Egyptian historical records. — it-1, 695-6.

Room 6

Rooms 8 and 9

1. Visceral vases, E 11257-58, 25273, bearing the crux ansata, symbol of life to the Egyptians. It probably represented the male and female reproductive organs combined. — it-1, 975.

2. Sphinx, A 21, of an earlier pharaoh, later usurped by Ramses II, then by his son Merneptah. An example of the unscrupulousness of the Egyptian pharaohs.
   • Turn right.

Galerie Henri IV

1. Head and feet of colossal statue, A 18-19, usurped by Amenhotep III. On the pedestal are depicted conquered peoples under pharaoh's feet. — Compare Psalm 18:40.
   • Go down into the Crypte de l'Osiris.
Crypte de l'Osiris

1. Mummy of the sacred ram, E 3089. The ram was dedicated to different gods, including Amon-Ra and Khnum. Most of the sacrifices offered by the Israelites would have been highly offensive to the Egyptians.
   — Exodus 8:26, 27; ii-1, 690.

2. (Ceiling) Zodiac from Denderah, E 13482/D 38. In Greek, the word "zodiac" means "circle of animals." Nut, the Egyptian sky-goddess, was conceived of as a cow having the stars affixed to her belly.
   — Compare Job 26:7; 2 Kings 23:5; ii-1, 976; ii-2, 1240.
   ✪ Exit the Crypte de l'Osiris and return to the gallery, continuing on the right-hand side.

Galerie Henri IV

2. Triad of Pharaoh, Osiris, and Horus, A 12. The reigning pharaoh was considered as a god and not just as a representative of the gods. Pharaoh's word was law. This explains why the commission Jehovah entrusted to Moses was so difficult.
   — Compare Exodus 5:1, 2; ii-2, 624.

3. Colossal statue of a pharaoh, A 20, usurped by Ramses II.
Statue of Hekatefnakht, E 25499. His Persian costume is proof of Persian domination in Egypt. — Compare Isaiah 43:3; Esther 1:1; 1t-1, 698–9.

On exiting the Galerie Henri IV, go up the Escalier Saint-Germain-l'Auxerrois to the first landing.

Escalier Saint-Germain-l'Auxerrois

Stele commemorating the burial of anApis bull, N 404. Bull worship. In Egypt the living bull was an incarnation of the god Osiris or Ptah. A period of national mourning was declared upon its death. This idolatrous worship likely influenced the Israelites, causing them to accept calf worship. — Psalm 106:19, 20; Acts 7:39–41; 1t-1, 393–4; 1t-2, 370.

Room A

1. Showcase: Model of a granary, E 11938. The scribe is noting the amount of grain stored in the silo. — Compare Genesis 41:35, 48, 56.

2. (Far end of room, left-hand corner) Showcase: Model of a court of offerings, E 26927. The deceased appears through a false door.
Room B

(1) [Left] Showcase: The Horse. All of the exhibits prove that horses were used in Egypt in Moses' day. Historians questioned this up until quite recently. — Compare Exodus 14:9.

Salle C

Room D

(1) Showcase 10: Small painted ivory, E 14374, showing a young prince (perhaps Tutankhamen) picking grapes. Proof that grapes grew in ancient Egypt, contrary to claims by the Greek historian Herodotus. — Compare Genesis 40:9–11.
1. (First window recess) "Stele of the Necklaces," C 213. Pharaoh is rewarding a servant with gold necklaces. Illustrates Genesis 41:42.

2. Jewelry showcase:
   - Seal rings. — Genesis 41:42.
   - Triad of Osorkon II, E 6204, composed of Horus, Osiris and Isis. Triads of deities existed long before Christendom's churches adopted the Trinity.

3. Stele of the head artist, Dedla, C 50, representing offerings made to a trinity composed of Horus, Osiris and Isis.
Room F

1. (Between the two windows) Showcase:
   - Papyrus "Book of the Dead," N.3070. The soul hovering above the body of the deceased illustrates the belief in the immortality of the soul.

2. Casket with the deceased watching his heart being weighed. These scenes are reminiscent of the "Last Judgment," similar to those on the central porch of Notre Dame cathedral in Paris.

3. (Window recess) Taharqa, E 25276, 3916. This pharaoh is probably the Tirhakah mentioned in Isaiah 37:9. — it-2, 1109.
Room G

Illustrated presentation of the gods of Egypt.

THE TEN PLAGUES

SOME GODS AND GODDESSES HUMILIATED (Ex. 1-9, 976)

Amon-Ra, the king of the gods (10th plague). — Exodus 12:12.
Apis, the sacred bull (5th plague). — Exodus 9:1-6.
Hapet, the Nile god (1st plague). — Exodus 7:19-21.
Hathor, the cow-goddess, who welcomed the dead (3rd plague). — Exodus 9:14.
Hephaestus, the hog-goddess (2nd plague). — Exodus 8:5-14.
Min, the fertility god, protector of the crops (8th plague). — Exodus 9:14-11.

Cross two rooms to enter Room 74.

Room 74 Salle des sept cheminées

1. The 18th-century paintings by J.-F. de Troy hung in this room depict the Bible account of Esther.

* Turn right and cross Room 33 (Antiquités étrusques) to visit Room 32.

Room 32 Salle des bronzes antiques

The armor 1, candelabras or lamp stands 2 and mirrors 3 clarify the texts at Ephesians 6:14-17, Matthew 5:15 and 1 Corinthians 13:12.

* Return to Room 74 (Salle des sept cheminées), and go into the next room.
Room 34  Salle du trésor de Boscaraule

1. (Central showcase) Cup decorated with skeletons, BJ 1924. The skeletons represent famous writers and philosophers. One of the cups bears the inscription: "Rejoice while you are still alive, the next day is uncertain." — Compare 1 Corinthians 15:32.

- Cross the rotunda. At the Victoire de Samothrace go down the Escalier Daru. Turn right at the bottom of the stairs, and head for the Vénus de Milo. Turn left into the Salle des Cariatides.

---

7  SULLY

Room 17  Salle des Cariatides

2. Torment of Marsyas, MA 542. Illustrates the meaning of the Greek words stauros (stake) and xylon (wood, tree), not a cross. — Matthew 27:40; Acts 5:30.

3. (Further on the left) Antiochus III, MA 1204. Syrian king who defeated the king of Egypt, Ptolemy V. Thus Palestine, dominated by the "king of the south" since 312 B.C.E., came under the control of the "king of the north." — iv-1, 699.
4 (Opposite Marsyas) Seleucus I Nicator, MA 3597. General who took over Mesopotamia and Syria upon the death of Alexander. He was the first “king of the north” in opposition to the Ptolemaic “king of the south” (see Room 11). — Daniel 11:4; w77, 490-1.

- Exit the Salle des Cariatides and turn left towards the Vénus de Milo.

Room 11

1 Ptolemy I Lagus, MA 849. One of Alexander the Great’s generals and first “king of the south.” In 312 B.C.E., he conquered Jerusalem. — Daniel 11:5; w77, 490-1.

Room 12

1 Vénus de Milo, MA 399. Goddess of fertility, counterpart of the Greek Aphrodite, the Canaanite Astarte, and the Babylonian Ishtar.

Room 16

1 Melpomene, MA 411, (the Muse of Tragedy). Illustrates the etymology of the word “hypocrite.” — It-1, 1164.
- Return to Room 5 (rotunda) and turn left into the Petite Galerie or Appartements d’Anne d’Autriche.
Note the elaborate female hairstyles. — 1 Timothy 2:9; 1 Peter 3:3.

1 Relief of "Domitius Ahenobarbus," MA 975. Note the "large shield" of each soldier. — Ephesians 6:16; 1 Thessalonians 5:8.

4 Portrait of Titus, MA 3562, who besieged and destroyed Jerusalem in 70 C.E.

Room 27 Antiquité tardive (Late Antiquity)

1 [Opposite, on the steps] Bust of Constantine, MA 1021, who used the "Christian" religion to consolidate his empire. — w93 7/1; 9.

Room 30 Galerie des Mosaiques

1 Display "L'enfant" (Children): Showcase: Schoolbook of Theodorus, MNE 914. The tutor wrote a master text (hypogrammos) on a waxed tablet that the student tried to copy perfectly. — 1 Peter 2:21; w86 12/1; 17.

2 Display "Les jeux" (The Games): Showcase: Convict thrown to the animals, CA 2613. See also CA 6483.

At the time of going to press, some of the rooms in the Grand Louvre have not yet been opened. The undisplayed objects which follow are of interest to the Bible student.
Palais de Suse

- Baked-brick panels. Susa, capital of ancient Elam and administrative center of the Persian empire, was located between Babylon and Persepolis (royal Persian city). — v88 3/15, 28; il-2, 327, 612.

- Capital and cedar beam, AOD 1. Which Nehemiah probably saw, as they come from the residence of Darius I, Xerxes I [Ahasuerus], and Artaxerxes. — Nehemiah 1:1; 2:1; Esther 1:2; il-2, 939.

---

- The archers of Darius, AOD 488. (See p. 31.) According to Herodotus, 'from the age of 5 until 20, [the Persians] only taught their sons three things: riding, archery, and truth-telling.' Their cavalry were experts even when shooting backward. They overwhelmed the enemy under a hail of arrows, thus keeping them at a distance. — il-1, 157; il-2, 613.
Human-headed lions under the emblem of Ahura Mazda (a winged circle), the principal deity of Zoroastrianism. — it-1, 977.

Showcase: Pottery and jewellery found at Susa.
— Read Esther 2:3, 8: 5:1, 2. Note the goblet in election, an alloy mentioned at Ezekiel 8:2.

Showcase: Cylinders and signet rings from Susa.
— Esther 8:2, 10.

Palmyra, Sidon and Carthage

Triad of Baal Shamlin (or Baal-Shemalm) of Palmyra, AO 19801. Baal, described as “lord of heaven,” appears between the moon-god and the sun-god. — 2 Kings 17:16; it-1, 229.

Mithraeum of Sidon or sanctuary of Mithra, a Persian sun-god whose birth was celebrated on December 25, at the winter solstice. — w87 12/15, 15.

Steles, MNB 898–9, commemorating child sacrifices to the goddess Tanit (Astarte) and to Baal, according to the ceremony followed in the worship of Molech. They come from Tunisia where the Phoenicians established several colonies. — 2 Kings 17:17; 23:10; it-2, 424.

Ur, AO 5991, containing the remains of a sacrificed child. — w86 10/1, 25.

Palestinian Antiquities

Shebnayahou seal, AO 6216. The inscription reads: “[belonging] to Shebnayahou, servant of Uzziah.” No doubt a high official whose name is an invocation to Jehovah.

Head of Herodian princess, AO 1206, found at Samaria.

Cast, AO 1310. Inscription from Siloam telling of the construction of Hezekiah’s tunnel; at the end of the 8th century B.C.E., to supply Jerusalem with water. — Compare 2 Kings 20:20; 2 Chronicles 32:30; it-1, 1104.

Jar, AO 20147, which contained some of the Dead Sea Scrolls. — it-2, 315.

Brick, AO 1211. The inscription “LXF” stands for “Legionis Decimae Fretensis,” the Tenth Legion which occupied Jerusalem after its destruction by Titus in 70 C.E.